

Privacy Policy

Written by Laurie Morgan (Admin)
Friday, 10 July 2009 19:34 -

---

We collect user information at several different points on weddingvendorprofiles .com. We collect it only for internal use and do not sell, rent or otherwise expose our registrants' private information to any third parties. How we use the information depends in part on whether the registrant is shopping for services (e.g., bride, groom, party planner) or registering as a vendor in order to list their own company. For brides, we will use your contact information to send you (on occasion) information and special offers relevant to wedding planning. You may opt out of mailings at will.

For vendors, we will use your contact information to confirm your listing information each year, to offer you the opportunity to upgrade to premium advertising services, and to share special offers, information and opportunities related to marketing. You may opt out of receiving mailings, but, in doing so, you will remove your listing information from both our web site and our printed books.

To make logging in on a repeat basis easier, this site also deploys cookies. We may use both session ID cookies and persistent cookies. Session ID cookies terminate once the browser is closed. Persistent cookies are small text files stored on the user's hard drive. Persistent cookies can be removed in the user's browser preferences (however, doing so may mean that the user's login information must be manually re-entered each visit).